Hub letting the good times roll

Boston is home to first skee-ball league in the Northeast ◗ Nostalgic childhood carnival game crawls into Beantown bar ◗ Tournament play is set to begin at the end of August ◗ What will be the name of your team?

The newest pub phenomenon is brewing in Boston and it may roll right over dart leagues and trivia nights.

Tonight, bar flies can gather at The Greatest Bar and test their skills at a childhood favorite — skee-ball.

The bar will be home to the first ever skee-ball league in the Northeast.

"We are trying to get people to come out by doing a mini-tournament [tonight], and trying to get them to see what these new machines are about," said Duke DeVilling, vice president of SkeeNation's Northeast operations.

When DeVilling, a North Carolina native, moved to Boston with his wife, he wanted to bring a piece of his past with him.

DeVilling approached owners of The Greatest Bar and pitched the idea of putting the machines in the pub to get a league rolling — an activity that became a huge hit in his hometown and surrounding cities, he said.

Two weeks ago, the "Beer Ball" machines were installed.

"What it has become in our other cities is something to look forward to every week," said DeVilling. "You get to have a couple beers, relax after work, but there is also a competitive nature mixed in."

Bar owner Peter Lucido said the machines are an updated version of the nostalgic childhood ones.

"They are more like a big pinball machine," he said. "It has all the bells and whistles and it challenges you a little bit. It's kind of like mixing Beer Pong with skee-ball."

Lucido said already the games have garnered more attention on weeknights, but he expects it to increase more when tournament time begins.

DeVilling said he anticipates the trend traveling to surrounding bars and cities, expanding the Boston league.

How it rolls

Boston Skeeball League's first season will start at the end of August, consisting of teams of three, playing on Thursday evenings. On league nights, teams roll 10 frames per person at $1 per frame. Each week participants roll against a different team in the league. The games last about 45 minutes.

Will this stop adult bullies?

State looking at legislation on workplace bulling Victims talk about degrading comments, sabotage

READ MORE ONLINE: WWW.METRO.US/BULLYING

With the suicides of two bullied high school students in Massachusetts, the focus on anti-bullying efforts thus far has been on children. But a group of advocates have been trying to convince state legislators to pass a bill that would give a legal avenue for victims of workplace bullies. The bill was the subject of a recent State House hearing and members of the Committee on Labor and Workforce Development are currently examining it.

"Some of the most destructive workplace bullying is of the covert variety, involving attempts to undermine someone's work performance and destroy [their] reputation," said David Yamada, a professor at Suffolk University who helped author the bill."

Advocates said that up to 59 percent of employees directly experience workplace bullying.

Gregory Sorozan, coordinator for the Workplace Bullying Institute, said the effort has gained momentum over the last year, going from 23 supporters signed up to more than 400 this year.

Avenues in the workplace, like human resources personnel, don't usually work to curb bullying, he said.

Valerie Cade, the author of "Bully Free at Work," said bullies grow up, but their characteristics don't.

"For someone who has bullying behavior, it's addictive, and they have to keep feeding it," she said.

Currently, 19 other states are reportedly considering similar proposals.

Trooper faces hearings after domestic incident

A veteran state police trooper will face a departmental review today, one day after he was in court for a hearing on charges that he beat his Transit police officer girlfriend inside his Quincy home this week.

Trooper Brian Dunn is on administrative leave pending today's hearing.

A Quincy District Court judge yesterday refused a request by prosecutors to hold Dunn without bail because they said he posed a danger to the woman and the community.

Dunn's lawyer said that he is the victim and that pictures of him after the incident show bite marks on his arm and that the cuts on his face were from his girlfriend.

Police responded to his Quincy home Monday morning. His girlfriend said he strangled and assaulted her.

Inside the home police found eight guns and between 500 and 800 rounds of ammunition. METRO/MN

Conditions

A Quincy judge released Dunn with the following conditions:

- He may not possess any firearms
- Wear a GPS device and stay away from his girlfriend's home
- Submit to random drug and alcohol testing
- Report to probation weekly

A trip on the crooked path to easy street

Satirical show says the only way to make it is to cheat Seminar on sly living tonight at Club Passim

The only way to achieve American prosperity is to look out for No. 1 and squash your competition.

At least, that's what Jeff Kreisler suggests in his satirical book "Get Rich Cheating: The Crooked Path to Easy Street."

From drug company kickbacks, to CEOs receiving post-scandal bonuses, Kreisler says everyone does it, so why shouldn't you?

Kreisler will offer advice about his methods to rising to the top at the expense of others tonight in Cambridge.

Although he takes a comedic jab at how America is built on cheaters and liars in positions of power and wealth, the research and data are real, he said.

"It's a study of that type of mentality that lets you not worry about anyone else but your bottom line and self interest."
KREISLER

"People lose sight of our community and social responsibility. It becomes every man for himself rather than rising tides lift all boats," Kreisler said. "I discuss these topics, then add a d— joke."

As part of the "Colbert Report"-style discussion, Kreisler will interview a panel of experts, including Harvard Business Professor Michael Norton.

"Rationalization, justification — we have all sorts of words for it, which speaks to how common [cheating] really is," Norton said.

Norton suggests people often convince themselves that cheating is warranted.

▶ Cartoons make for powerful imagery.

LONDON. Al Qaeda sympathizers are planning to produce a children's cartoon film to inspire young Muslim viewers to take up armed violence against the West, security specialists who monitor militant websites say.

Such a development would add to an expanding repertoire of media tactics employed by the transnational group, which is placing increasing reliance on online propaganda to shore up support in the absence of successful attacks in the West. REUTERS

▶ TSA plans to unroll nudity-free scanning software.

▶ Don't get your panties in a bunch: Airline experience will soon involve fewer pictures of your private parts

New software for screening travelers at U.S. airports will do away with naked images, addressing a major public concern, the Transportation Security Administration said yesterday.

After complaints from travelers, the TSA earlier this year began testing at four airports software for the full-body scanners that instead uses a generic body outline and highlights the area where any anomaly is detected, eliminating actual images of passengers.

TSA has increasingly relied on the full-body scanners after a Nigerian man allegedly tried to detonate a bomb hidden in his underwear aboard a transatlantic flight in December 2009. The bomb failed to fully explode but set off a rush to upgrade security to detect explosives underneath clothing.

"This software upgrade enables us to continue providing a high level of security through ... while improving the passenger experience."
TSA ADMINISTRATOR JOHN PISTOLE

Later this year, TSA plans to roll out a pilot program that will allow some frequent fliers at four hub U.S. airports to go through expedited screening, an attempt to shift more toward assessing the risk of the individual flier rather than a one-size fits all security model. REUTERS

Debt extension OK'd on temporary basis

WASHINGTON. President Barack Obama would accept a short-term extension of the debt limit that lasted a few days if it were necessary to give Congress time to pass legislation for a broader deficit reduction deal, the White House said yesterday.

The White House said the only way the president would allow a brief extension would be to deliver a reduction deal. Otherwise, he opposed an extension. REUTERS

SAN FRANCISCO. Apple shares flirted with a record $400 yesterday, a day after the world's most valuable tech firm posted blockbuster results, triggering a spate of brokerage upgrades.

The stock set a lifetime high as a new MacBook Air and "Mac mini" go on sale, the latter rivaling some of the cheaper offerings from Dell or Hewlett-Packard.

While iPhones remain the flagship device, the company touted its new line of Intel-powered Macs and the latest version of its operating software, the multitouch-enabled Mac OS X Lion. REUTERS

British PM regrets hire of journalist

Prime Minister David Cameron, defending his integrity to parliament in emergency session yesterday, said he regretted hiring a journalist at the heart of a scandal that has rocked Britain's press, police and politics.

But in hours of stormy questioning he seemed to rally his Conservative Party behind him and stopped short of bowing to demands that he apologize outright for what the Labour leader called a "catastrophic error of judgment" in appointing as his spokesman a former editor of Rupert Murdoch's News of the World.

Only if Andy Coulson, who has since resigned, should turn out to have lied about not knowing of illegal practices at his newspaper would the prime minister offer a "profound apology."

"If it turns out I have been lied to, that would be a moment for a profound apology." CAMERON

Analysts said Cameron emerged from the debate looking stronger than when he was forced to fly home early from Africa to face lawmakers. But he left some lingering questions unanswered, notably about his role in Murdoch's takeover bid for TV network BSkyB. REUTERS

▶ After his toughest two weeks in office, David Cameron spoke with feeling of the Coulson saga: "You live and you learn — and believe you me, I have learnt," he said.

Fuller sues Fox over 'X Factor' fees

"American Idol" creator Simon Fuller has sued the Fox television network seeking credits and monetary fees for the upcoming U.S. version of TV talent show, "The X Factor."

The breach of contract lawsuit, which became public yesterday, alleges that Fox, part of the News Corp. media empire, and producers FremantleMedia North America have refused to honor a 2005 contract granting Fuller an executive producer credit and fees for the U.S. version of "The X Factor."

Fox and Fremantle said the lawsuit, which was filed in Los Angeles Superior Court, was without merit and they expected to prevail in court. REUTERS

14 arrested in PayPal attack

WASHINGTON. U.S. authorities on Tuesday arrested 16 people on charges they participated in major cyber attacks, including an attempt to cripple eBay's PayPal website as retribution for dropping WikiLeaks as a client.

FBI agents arrested 14 people in nine states and Washington, D.C., for the PayPal attack, which occurred last December and was allegedly coordinated by the hacking group Anonymous. It was the biggest response by authorities tied to a recent spate of high-profile cyber attacks. REUTERS

The gang says goodbye

▶ Actors Kevin Connolly, Adrian Grenier, Jeremy Piven, Kevin Dillon and Jerry Ferrara attend the 'Entourage' Season 8 premiere at the Beacon Theatre on Tuesday night in New York City.

It was packed Tuesday night on Amsterdam Avenue in New York City for the premiere of the final season of "Entourage." Mark Walhberg, Adrian Grenier, Kevin Connolly, Kevin Dillon, Jerry Ferrara, Jeremy Piven, Sir Ben Kingsley, Andrew Dice Clay and many others were on hand to say goodbye to the hit HBO show. Now that the series is done filming, we asked some of the stars we saw: Who would make up their ultimate entourage?

Bryan Batt:

("Mad Men" actor) I'd love to have my mom, she just passed away. I would love to have her back. She'd be first on my list. I would have Christina Hendricks, and my friend Patricia Clarkson. They're grounded and cool people and I love to hang with them. They're also gorgeous red heads. We'd go to Venice and get in a gondola and row and row.

Adrian Grenier:

John Lennon.

Jeremy Piven:

My mom. Definitely my momma.

Kevin Dillon:

I think I would like Dean Martin. He's a golfer, he sings great and he's cool. He's smooth as butter.

Doug Ellin

("Entourage" creator) My kids and my dogs. That's it. I'm not really into the entourage. I still have my best friends. My best friends from elementary school are here tonight. They've been to every one of these premieres — even to my bad movie premieres.

Constance Zimmer

(Dana Gordon) My husband, my daughter and my nanny. That's pretty much my entourage. We go to the park. We eat a lot. We do a lot of eating. Mind you, that's my posse. But my ultimate entourage would probably be people who are shorter than me and not as pretty as me. Anything to make me feel better about myself. Just kidding!

— With additional reporting by Jeryl Brunner

It's been a whale of a week so far

1: Will Ferrell found something whiter than he is: Nanuq, a 2,000-pound beluga whale. Ferrell hung out with the whale at SeaWorld San Diego's Wild Arctic attraction Tuesday in San Diego, Calif.

2: Madeline Follin of the band Cults hung out with Matt Pinfield at Bowery Electric on Tuesday night in New York. Cults performed a few songs to celebrate the revival of Pinfield's classic show "120 Minutes." Videos on an MTV network again? Rock on!

Talk-show host turned talking owl

Craig Ferguson on lending his voice to the new 'Winnie the Pooh' 'You turn up looking like a slob and sound like an owl,' he says of animation's perks

When he's not keeping night owls entertained hosting "The Late Late Show," Craig Ferguson has been sneaking into recording studios to lend his vocal talents to several animated projects, including last year's surprise hit "How to Train Your Dragon" and next summer's Pixar release, "Brave." Now, Ferguson takes on a classic as Owl in Disney's new version of "Winnie the Pooh," in theaters now.

Were you already a fan of Winnie the Pooh?
Oh yeah, of course. I knew the stuff. The books were read to me when I was a very little kid, and I watched the Disney movies and TV shows, I remember, as a child. My favorite as a kid was Tigger — not at all Owl, who I suppose radiated a kind of intellectual figure, but the character of Tigger, who kind of crazy and unrestrained.

You're not your usual Scottish self as Owl.
I think that we all felt that an English and a sort of stuffy, pompous, kind of upper-class sound was the most appropriate. I think that it gives it a little bit of flavor, because it's a slightly different sound to the other voices. It's kind of, you know, fun.

You've done a great deal of voice work for animation. What about it appeals to you so much?
Animation is very attractive if you're in my line of work, because you're not limited by your own physical appearance, clearly. So you don't have to worry about your physical limitations, right down to the extent of when you go to work that day you don't have to shave. You turn up looking like a slob and sound like an owl.

Between acting, writing and hosting a late-night talk show, your schedule must be a nightmare.
It's not that bad, really. I live about a 20-minute car ride from where I work, and the late-night show takes me a couple of hours a day — and really no more than that.

▶ Ferguson poses in the sound booth while recording his voiceover for Owl.

Will "The Late Late Show" go on?

I don't know. I think that's a fair question, and it's something I've been asking myself recently. I mean, I've been doing it since January 2005, so I guess it will be coming up on seven years. I don't know how much I can do with it or where I'm going to take it. I'll do it for a little while longer, but I really don't know how it's going to play out. I like keeping it as loose as possible.

10 Reasons to go to the movies this weekend

2 'Friends With Benefits' Justin Timberlake and Mila Kunis attempt to make work what absolutely no one else in the history of predictable rom-coms has been able to. At least they'll look hot doing it.

3 'Harry Potter and the Deathly Hallows: Part 2' You may have heard about this little sleeper hit. The final installment of the franchise pits Potter against his lifelong nemesis, the creepily noseless Lord Voldemort.

4 'Winnie the Pooh' No 3-D, no computer animation, just a purely delightful little film set in the Hundred Acre Wood.

5 'Horrible Bosses' No one likes working for a man eater, a psychopath or a jerk — but very few of us would actually embark on eliminating said boss. Jason Sudeikis, Charlie Day and Jason Bateman star as three hardworking men who attempt to do just that.

6 'Zookeeper' Fans of Kevin James will likely enjoy his romp around a Boston zoo where talking animals give him dating advice.

7 'Transformers: Dark of the Moon' Michael Bay has paid for the sins of the last "Transformers" film with this straightened-out sequel, which features fight scenes where you can actually see what's going on.

8 'Larry Crowne' It's nice to see Tom Hanks do something funny after so many dour (and questionably successful) films. As Crowne, he's a down-on-his-luck good guy trying to rebuild his life by going to community college.

9 'Monte Carlo' Leighton Meester, Katie Cassidy and Selena Gomez star in this tweenified story of three girls traveling in Paris who are whisked away to Monte Carlo when one of them is mistaken for a British heiress.

10 'Cars 2' Owen Wilson and Larry the Cable Guy return to give voice to Lightning McQueen and Mater as they head to the World Grand Prix race. METRO

THE RUNDOWN

Metro's guide to what's happening in your city this week

CHRIS MCKENNA

Guess which one is the titular 'Italian Girl in Algiers.' That would be Sandra Piques Eddy, center.

Embroidered mittens are always the trademark of a tyrant, as you can see from this still from the film, 'The Autobiography of Nicolae Ceausescu.'

Music

'Tonya and Nancy: The Rock Opera'
Tonight, 7:30 and 10
Oberon, 2 Arrow St., Cambridge
$25-$45, 866-811-4111
www.cluboberon.com
The '90s are back with a bang — or at least they are back with a whack of a police baton to the knee. If you grew up around these parts, you probably remember where you were when you heard about hometown Olympic figure skater Nancy Kerrigan getting brutalized by some thug hired by Tonya Harding (her teammate on the U.S. Olympic Figure Skating team). Now, more than 15 years later, Michael Teoli and Elizabeth Searle have done what any smart writer does when dealing with truth that is stranger than fiction: write a rock opera about it.

'The Italian Girl in Algiers'
Through July 31,
Tsai Performance Center, 685 Comm. Ave., Boston,
$30-$50,
617-227-0442
www.bostonmidsummeropera.org
This comic opera by Rossini is full of lighthearted romantic romping and confusion; but it's not without social criticism, either — at one point the North African king Mustafa is told that to honor the Italian noble order of "Pappataci," "You must eat, drink and sleep all you like, and remain oblivious to anything around you." We'll take it!

Movies

'The Autobiography of Nicolae Ceausescu'
Sunday, 6:30 p.m.
Paramount Theatre
559 Washington St., Boston, $5-$10,
617-824-8400
www.artsemerson.org
This documentary is not the actual autobiography of the Romanian communist dictator, but in another, more ironic sense, it is: It's a compilation of state propaganda footage featuring Ceausescu giving speeches schmoozing with Eastern Bloc power. Refraining from narration, the director lets the footage speak for itself, painting a picture both ridiculous and haunting.

'3000 Years and Life'
Tuesday, 6 p.m.
Fields Corner Branch Library, 1520 Dorchester Ave., Dorchester
Free, 617-436-2155
www.bpl.org
This documentary tells the remarkable story of a strike at Walpole State Prison in the early '70s, which led to the inmates actually running the prison for several months. Some of the inmates who were there will share their stories in a discussion after the film. They are probably some very interesting stories, to say the least.

Theater

Fringe Wars
Tuesday, 7:30 p.m.
BCA Plaza Theatre
527 Tremont St., Boston
$20, 617-292-7110
www.companyone.org
Think of it as "Boston Theater Idol" or something like that: Company One has challenged a bunch of local theater companies to write and perform a short play for a cash prize and bragging rights. This is the fourth and final night of presentations before the finals. Companies are judged by both a panel and the audience, so your vote counts! Unlike "American Idol," there are no standard text-messaging rates that apply!

Circus

Circus Smirkus
Next Thursday through July 31
Gore Place
52 Gore St., Waltham
$19-25, 877-764-7587
www.smirkus.org
This Vermont-based traveling circus features performers between the ages of 10 and 18, but don't let their ages fool you — this is a full-fledged circus show. Backed by adult professionals, they do it all; high-wire, trapeze, juggling, clowning and more — all at a hectic performance pace. This summer they're performing more than 70 shows in seven weeks! Now that's death-defying.

'PSY'
Through Sunday
Cutler Majestic Theatre
219 Tremont St., Boston
$25-$79, 617-824-8000
www.artsemerson.org
The acrobatic troupe Les 7 doigts de la main presents this musical, theatrical showcase in which stunts of human kinetic wonderment are interspersed with dramatic vignettes on mental illness. If we can defy gravity with our bodies, can we do the same with our minds? You won't see anything like this show in Boston this summer.

Art

'Kodachrome: Prints from Slides'
Saturdays through July 30
Washington Street Art Center, 321 Washington St., Somerville
Free, 617-623-5315
www.washingtonst.org
Call us nostalgic, but we were upset to hear that Kodachrome slide film is no longer made. So was local photographer Lee Kilpatrick, so he made sure to get all his slides developed before the deadline. These prints are highlights from those rolls. Nothing especially unites them thematically, but they all display the film's trademark cinematic sharpness and bold colors.

Aragosta keeps it cool

- Some like it hot, but the operative word there is 'some'
- If you are not among those few, then we have a restaurant for you

Nosh On

LINDA LABAN
LINDA.LABAN@METRO.US

Some like it hot, and some don't — especially in the summer swelter. There's another side to Boston's booming waterfront. Away from the bustling South Boston end, the spot where Aragosta sits at the foot of the North End is a peaceful haven.

Tucked into the cul-de-sac that houses the Fairmont Battery Wharf, Aragosta took over the spot from Sensing, a gorgeous, modern restaurant that hearkened back to French traditions while presenting itself in cool minimalism, with seriously good food. But it was perhaps a little too airy for Boston tastes, which never tire of the Mother Cuisine: Italian. So now, we say hello to Aragosta — Italian for lobster.

Executive chef David Daniels (The Federalist, Topper's — The Wauwinet, Nantucket) sticks with classics and, yes, there are dishes that make use of the delicious crustacean, whether it's tucked inside ravioli or combined with cannelloni beans and truffle oil on top of wafer-thin crostini. There's no gimmick though — just the simplicity of slicing burrata mozzarella, quartering succulent golden and red tomatoes and drizzling the plate with olive oil and sweet balsamic vinegar. A single potent basil leaf renders that signature kick to this classic salad. Or, say, pairing a oreganano-dusted halibut with risotto and Cape Code clams en brodo. Less is always more satisfying.

Appetizers at Aragosta range from $9 to $16; entrees range from $17 to $34.

Death by chocolate?

When it comes to dessert, Aragosta has a Boston Cream Pie semi freddo that playfully turns the table on its otherwise subtle unshowy mantra. Vanilla sponge, cream and chocolate-flavored semi freddo are set on a cocoa macaroon, the flavor of which is intoxicating. Just when we thought chocolate had been done to death!

Get to know: Christina Perri

- Yes, the guy she wrote 'Jar of Hearts' about knows it's about him
- She'd love to be on the 'Shore'

LANI LEE SUMMER 2011

▶ Christina Perri plays the Paradise on Wednesday. Visit www.ticketmaster.com for more info.

Due to popular demand ...

Christina Perri's show was originally scheduled for the Brighton Music Hall, but because of demand it was moved to the Paradise. That's the same trajectory for Ellie Goulding, who was supposed to play the BMH in March, but sold so many tickets so quickly that the show was moved to the 'dise. Look at Goulding now (on the list to the left) just a few months later and she's playing the House of Blues next week. Here are a few other recent concert venue upgrades.

- Lykke Li moved from the Paradise to the House of Blues in May.
- Dirty Heads moved from the Paradise to the House of Blues in March.
- Mogwai was originally scheduled for an April show at the Paradise, but because of visa issues, and demand, the show was moved to Oct. 1 at the House of Blues.

Sure, Christina Perri's debut album "Lovestrong" landed in the top five of the Billboard charts the week it debuted — but perhaps even more noteworthy for the 24-year-old musician was the fact her double platinum first single "Jar Of Hearts" was performed by Lea Michele on the "Prom Queen" episode of "Glee." (Is there a bigger stamp of having made it for musicians in our new pop culture landscape? Probably not.) So now that she's overtaking the airwaves and TV sets, we had the tattooed sensation give us a little bit of background information.

Best piece of advice you've ever been given:
You're enough, just the way you are.

Favorite dish to cook yourself when you're not in a rush:
My favorite thing to make is a fruit salad. I use 13 different fruits and a melon baller, and I let it marinate in its amazing fruit juice deliciousness. Yum!

What is the most repetitive question you get asked on interviews?
"Does the guy you wrote 'Jar of Hearts' about know it's about him?" The answer is yes! And he thinks it's cool.

What reality show do you secretly want to be cast on?
"The Jersey Shore"!

TO RECEIVE NEWS ON UPCOMING SHOWS, TEXT "HOT TICKETS" TO 89800

What celebrity did you have a crush on as a teen?
Axl Rose and Johnny Depp

What's the last song you listened to on repeat?
"Flightless Bird, American Mouth" by Iron + Wine.

You are trapped on a desert island with a TV, a DVD player and the complete series discs of one television program. What is the program?
"Full House."

Best/worst date?
Best date: Dinner and live music. Worst date: No dinner and a night club.

Horoscope

♋ Cancer June 21-July 22. Trying to help out another while at the same time attempting to do your own job is likely to turn out to be a bummer for both of you, as you lose track of which project you're working on.
♌ Leo July 23-Aug. 22. You're not likely to take kindly to those who oppose your opinions or ideas. If this is the case, you're apt to turn your back on some really good thinking that could help you out a lot.
♍ Virgo Aug. 23-Sept. 22. Be very careful about who you team up with. If you link up with someone who doesn't operate with the same high standards as you, this person could create trouble.
♎ Libra Sept. 23-Oct. 23. Owing to an inclination to negatively judge people in advance, you could easily begin a relationship thinking the worst of someone.
♏ Scorpio Oct. 24-Nov. 22. Adopting the wrong attitude will defeat you right off the bat. All you'll do is unjustly jaundice your view.
♐ Sagittarius Nov. 23-Dec. 21. Just because a friend of yours is in a mood that makes him or her difficult to get along with at this point in time, there's no reason to shun this person altogether.
♑ Capricorn Dec. 22-Jan. 19. Once you establish an objective, you're apt be quite headstrong when going after it — which is well and good, as long as you don't carry it too far.
♒ Aquarius Jan. 20-Feb. 19. If you're looking for some encouragement, don't seek out the opinions of someone who seldom endorses another person's ideas. All you'll get is a negative assessment.
♓ Pisces Feb. 20-March 20. Be careful about borrowing money that you could have trouble paying back, and avoid loaning out what you can't afford to lose. In either case, it is likely to be problematic for you.
♈ Aries March 21-April 19. Your self-sufficient qualities might desert you and you could wrongfully depend on others to accomplish your aims. You won't like what they do, and you won't relish the results.
♉ Taurus April 20-May 20. Although you're usually pretty efficient, this could be one of those days when everything you do seems harder or comes out all wrong.
♊ Gemini May 21-June 20. Trying too hard to please someone will result in no one having a good time. Relax and let the chips fall where they may. Even if things still don't go well, you'll be able to laugh.

BEACH BOUND

You have the basics— sunscreen, bikini, trashy novels — all taken care of But here are a few more items to toss in your bag before heading off for a day of sun and sand

TINA CHADHA
tina.chadha@metro.us

The products

1. Your local beach isn't outfitted with cabana boys to bring you lounge chairs. If you must lay on the sand, do it on these chic towels. Roberta Roller Rabbit beach towels, $125, www.robertaroller rabbit.com

2. Untangle your hair after the sun and saltwater have had their way with it using RickyCare Sun combs, which are infused with sunscreen and olive oil to protect your locks. $6, www.rickysnyc.com

3. Philip Kingsley's Swimcap protects hair from chlorine, sun and saltwater. It also stops your highlights from fading or turning that awful green color. $35, www.philipkingsley.com

4. Lips need sun protection, too. L'Occitane's new, limited-edition Sun Verbena conditioning gloss contains SPF 15. Sun Verbena Protective Gloss SPF 15, $12, www.loccitane.com

5. Sure, you're going all natural — but there are surfers to impress! And this adorable waterproof mascara comes in its own beach outfit. Tarte Lights, Camera, Splashes! 4-in-1 natural waterproof mascara, $19, www.sephora.com

6. You want to wipe the sweat and grime off your face before reapplying a coat of sunscreen. These towelettes also contain aloe vera to soothe skin. Yes to Cucumbers towelettes, $3, www.yestocarrots.com

7. Sometimes sunblock isn't enough, and you just want to hide under a big hat and nap. Hat Attack sun hat in natural with raspberry, $58, www.hatattack.com

Report: Beltran too expensive

The Red Sox would like to land Mets OF Carlos Beltran, but the asking price appears to be too high, ESPN.com reported last night.

"We're interested in Beltran, but the price would have to be sensible," the site quoted a Red Sox source as saying. "We lost a lot of good prospects for [Adrian] Gonzalez and want to protect our better minor leaguers." METRO

Bruins sign two draftees

The Bruins have signed two 2010 draftees to entry-level contracts, the team officially announced yesterday.

Jared Knight, the 32nd overall pick, and Ryan Spooner, the 45th overall pick, are reportedly with the team on three-year deals.

Both are likely to play in the OHL in 2011-12. METRO

Ellsbury the hottest of the hot for Boston

Center fielder torches Baltimore again ◗ He's on his way to career bests in every significant category ◗ Today's an off-day ◗ Seattle up tomorrow

As great as Adrian Gonzalez has been, as impressive as Josh Reddick has looked, perhaps the finest feel-good story in the Red Sox's lineup is the resurgence of Jacoby Ellsbury.

The center fielder, whose 2010 was ruined by a spate of injuries, just might be the hottest hitter in an offense full of them. He's batting .316 on the season, with a career-high 15 home runs.

Two of those came yesterday during the Sox's 4-0 win over the lowly Orioles. No surprise there: Ellsbury is on a 29-game hitting streak against Baltimore, with a .445 average, six homers and 20 RBIs during the span.

"He kind of put us on his shoulders today," manager Terry Francona said. "He does that from time to time."

All but forgotten in spring training with the arrival of Carl Crawford, Ellsbury looks poised to set full-season career highs in every major offensive category.

"We shouldn't feel like he's picking on us. He's having a great year, and he seems to be even better against us. You could ask the same question about Reddick and Gonzalez."

ORIOLES MANAGER BUCK SHOWALTER

He's within 30 runs of 2008's 98 and a half-dozen RBIs of 2009's 60, and he's well ahead of his previous full-year bests in batting average, on-base percentage, slugging percentage, OPS and home runs.

Ellsbury and the Sox, who've won four of five, have today off.

They're back at Fenway Park for the first time since July 10 tomorrow, when they host the Seattle Mariners. METRO

No trade for Reyes

The New York Mets definitely will not deal star shortstop Jose Reyes before the trade deadline, ESPN's Buster Olney reported yesterday.

Reyes returned from the DL on Tuesday.

Even with the All-Star in the lineup, the Mets appear unlikely to reach the postseason. They're sitting third in the NL East. METRO

Altitude will key today's Tour stage

With three climbs of more than 2,000 meters (6,562 feet) and the highest-ever Tour de France finish at 2,645 meters (8,678 feet) on the Galibier pass, altitude will be a deciding factor in today's 18th stage.

"Two thousand meters is the limit at which every one of us is suddenly lacking oxygen," Movistar team director Yvon Ledanois said. "Some riders handle it well, and others [handle it] far worse."

"This is not really something you can work on. It's part of your natural abilities."
MOVISTAR TEAM DIRECTOR YVON LEDANOIS

With 2,000-meter finishes so rare, there's no real need to prepare for the altitude. But most contenders prepped specially for today's stage.

"Cadel [Evans] has good references at altitude and he's always felt well in the high mountains, but we organized two training camps at altitude as soon as we discovered the course," Evans' team director, John Lelangue, said.

Evans — who sits second behind Thomas Voeckler — Alberto Contador and Andy Schleck are generally regarded as the three favorites on today's climbs. REUTERS
